Anne-Marie Brooks, Mayor, City of Madeira Beach, Florida

Rotary Guest Speaker September 2, 2026

Anne-Marie Brooks serves as Mayor of the City of Madeira Beach, Florida, a community she is proud to call home. A Florida native and longtime Pinellas County resident, Anne-Marie has lived in Madeira Beach for more than a decade and has a deep appreciation for the people, businesses and unique character that make this coastal community so special. Her path to public service began with a desire to become more involved in her community. She first served on the City's Budget Review Committee and Planning Commission before being elected as District 4 Commissioner and later Mayor. Her approach to leadership is centered on transparency, thoughtful decision-making, kindness, collaboration and ensuring residents have a meaningful voice in the future of their community. As Mayor, Anne-Marie has helped lead Madeira Beach through a period of significant challenges and rebuilding, including the devastating 2024 hurricane season. Those experiences have strengthened her belief in the power of community, resilience and the importance of working together even when people may not always agree. Anne-Marie is also actively involved in regional leadership and collaboration. She serves on the Tampa Bay Regional Planning Council, Forward Pinellas, and as Vice President of the Barrier Islands Governmental Council (Big-C), along with various other councils and committees focused on issues affecting Madeira Beach, Pinellas County, the barrier islands and the greater Tampa Bay region. She believes strongly that communities are better served when local and regional leaders work together to find solutions and plan thoughtfully for the future. Beyond City Hall, Anne-Marie is passionate about supporting local businesses, strengthening relationships throughout the community and creating opportunities that bring people together. Whether attending a community event, supporting a local business, talking with residents, or simply enjoying life on the water, she considers serving the people of Madeira Beach one of her greatest honors. Anne-Marie and her husband, Jeff, are proud to call Madeira Beach home. Together, they share six children and five grandchildren and family remains an important part of their lives.
